

James Woolf

I have lived on the same quarter section for 57 years. At the age of ten, I remember my dad purchasing some hand moves. My dad used to say, "What this country needs is an inch of rain every Saturday night, but it doesn't. So we create our own." So when the evolution of the irrigation industry began, I purchased a pivot. I foresaw the benefits of this technology and had the second pivot in the United Irrigation District. Now I irrigate about 700 acres. I believe Irrigation has benefited the well-being of the area. We need to remember during the wet seasons not to give up our Irrigation rights, because our irrigation rights are what keep us going during a drought.